

HUMAN RADAR

MATT. 7: 2

SOME TIME AGO THERE APPEARED AN ARTICLE IN THE READER'S DIGEST ENTITLED, "THE BATS HAVE USED IT FOR A THOUSAND YEARS."

The article was presenting in every day language the principles of radar, and in a most interesting fashion the scientists described a secret that until recently had not been discovered.

It was the secret of how bats are able to fly for miles underground in tunnels, caves, etc and never strike the walls. The scientists caught some bats and confined them in a long room that had wires stretched across it. The bats in the darkness of midnight would fly through the room and never hit a wire. The bats were blindfolded for the scientists thought maybe that they could see at night. In this condition they flew as usual with out striking the wire. They then took off the blindfold and taped up their ears and bills. When turned loose in that condition they hit every thing in the room.

An amplifier was set up and they found that when a bat flew it sang a song, a tune. It uttered a very high note that the ear can not hear. This shrill note located and positioned any solid object in its way. When the note hit a solid object it was bounded back and the bat swerved. This, said the scientists, is the principle of radar.

Echo in hells & hallows
You turn to your Bible at Matt. 7:2 and you will find that Jesus knew this in the spiritual realm not a thousand years ago but two thousand years ago when He said, "With what measure you meet it, it shall be measured to you again."

At once we see that this is a terrifying truth, for there is not one of us that desires to receive measure for measure. This truth would remind us that chance does not rule in this world, but that we live in a law abiding universe.

If chance were king we could measure out to the world any thing we wished and there would be no reason for it to come back tous. But this is an ordered world and God laid down at the beginning the principles of radar in human lives:

"Be sure your sins will find you out."

✓ "Whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap."

"Cast thy bread upon the waters: for thou shalt find it after many days."

Most of us know something <sup>4</sup> ~~an~~ angry word bouncing back. Some day we may find that the word does not have to be spoken but as it comes up in our minds it sets up vibrations that reach the minds of those around us. The expressions on our faces do set up vibrations and in turn change facial expressions in those around us.

Some fliers had a crash landing in Asia among the savages on the Hump. The flyers could not speak a word of the savage language but one of the flyers, a major, said to the flyers, smile, smile, and hold out your hands with whatever gifts you have. The smiles bounced and the savages came forward and examined the gifts and gave them back and graciously cared for the airmen till they were rescued three weeks later. One of the fliers said, "There is one universal language...the smile." "SMILES" is the longest word in the English language...a mile between the two s's.

Dickens tried to express this truth in one of his stories. An old miser was sitting in his counting room checking his profits for the year. The thought came to him that if his partner was dead his profits would be doubled. He turned the thought over in his mind and said to himself, "Maybe I could murder him and not be discovered."

While he was thinking in these terms his little daughter came into the room to ask a question but when she saw him she began to turn white, hesitate, and back out of the room. The greedy old merchant sat in amazement and said out loud, "Was it possible that she could see what was in my mind?" Was it possible that the room was so charged with murder that it scared the innocent soul? The terror of the thing caused the old man to backtrack and like the Prodigal turn he turned home and came to his heavenly Father.

Some time later, as he arose from his knees in his devotions, the same little girl, now a little larger, bounded into the room and up into his lap, hugged him, and kissed him and said, "Daddy please be like you are now always. One time I came here and you scared me. You seemed so different then. Now the room is so bright and full of sunshine. Please daddy stay like you are now." Dickens was saying that our thoughts may be felt or heard. Vibrations go out from the souls of men.

Now the Bible presents both sides of this great truth. "With what measure you meet it shall be measured to you again. He who hurts and kills will be hurt and killed. JACOB deceived his old father and his children in turn deceived him. He meted out deception and in turn had deception meted out to him."

Ahab wanted Naboth's vineyard. Jezebel, Ahab's wife arranged for Naboth to be killed and the dogs licked up his blood. Ahab went to take a walk in his new sinfully acquired vineyard. God had Elijah to meet him. He said to Ahab, "In the place where the dogs licked up the blood of Naboth they shall lick up your blood." The next time Ahab went to war he disguised himself to keep the prophesy from coming true but a man shot him. He was carried home and the blood was washed from his carriage and the dogs licked it up at the very spot where Naboth was stoned to death. Jezebel was thrown from a window and the dogs licked up her blood.

But there is a beautiful side to this truth. When you do some good thing it strats vibrations that make good come back to you. Cast bread upon the waters and you will gather it some time hence.

Here is an excerpt from "Life in These United States." In an American town city lots were selling for taxes. They were bringing an average of $600 and some one thousand. An elderly gentleman was sitting waiting for a certain lot to be put up. He opened the bidding at a ridiculously low bid of $25. A soldier down front on crutches still wearing battle scars bid $30. The old man raised his voice so that all could hear and said, "If that soldier wants this lot I will not raise the bid."

The auctioneer waited a moment and there was not another bid so almost reverently he said, "Sold to the soldier for $30."

The old man realized as all of us do that our boys who followed our flag in battle really lived awhile in hell for us....some even making the supreme sacrifice. Those that came back, whether wearing scars on their body or not wear them in their minds and hearts representing the suffering they endured that we and our loved ones might have happiness and peace. THE BOY'S CRUTCHES AND SCARS STARTED VIBRATIONS IN THE OLD MANS MIND AND HEART.

We may not receive the blessing all of a sudden. We have to wait some times.

Dr. A.J. Fristoe, once state evangelist for the state of Va. told this interesting story: He went to England on a ~~mission~~ preaching tour. When he arrived the committee told him that a man of royalty had asked to entertain him while in England. He was dumfounded but he was not kept long in the dark. Their son who was an officer on a British Crusier had his crusier docked at Norfolk for repairs. He drifted into Dr. Fristoe's church. Seeming interested Dr. Fristoe invited him to his home for lunch. He came often after that. Was eventually converted and taken into the church. He left and Dr. Fristoe had forgotten all about him. But newspapers reached the other side of the world and the boy saw that the dr. was going to England for a preaching tour so he wired his people to care for him and they did. Dr. Fristoe ended the story by saying "Cast your bread upon the waters, and you will find it after many days." Jesus said, "With what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you again."

Friends you are an ECHO. Start the vibrations for good and they will find the great heart of the universe and come back to you.

But maybe the greatest thing it does to us is something it does to us inside. Let's let Edgar Allen Guest tell us about that:
